

Wise men speak because they have something to say Fools because they have to say something.

- Plato